

Winterfest

The Clevemore Fancy Brigade's 2009 presentation was a setting of a frozen winter galaxy. This theme depicted wind, ice and snow. A true frozen fantasy came to life within the makings the frozen world of ice. The God of Wind was featured in the opening act with very elaborate wind type suits. An explosion of different colors throughout the presentation was featured especially those of the traditional wintery colors of white, blue, and silver as well as the festive colors of green, purple, and orange. Clevemore members showed that life can and does exist in an imaginary arctic world that celebrates the season of winter. The members depicted the characters and elements of wind, ice and snow throughout their version of a true WinterFest; a celebration of the north that took place. Costumes that were featured were wind suits, ice crystals, snowball type characters and colorful jesters that celebrated in the winter scenery and throughout the production.

A true frozen fantasy came to life as the snow ball characters rolled through the frozen forest of trees and meet with the colorful jesters and Royal Palace members emerged to join in the celebration as the Snow King was able to make snow fall in honor of the festival celebration. Clevemore's Captain Ralph Tursi was featured as the Snow King and was able to generate a snowstorm that swept the finale into a winter blast of power and excitement that all were able to enjoy. High energy and powerful dance helped to create the fantasy that was WinterFest.
